

BREAKING AT A CROSSROADS

Sunny is USA's breaking ambassador. Though an introvert, she wears a beaming smile for a flood of TV interviews and magazine photoshoots. Corporate sponsors are knocking at her door. As the spotlight intensifies, it's clear the Olympic stage will supercharge breaking's popularity.

This underground culture is about to transform into a mainstream sport with new rules and new standards. And while a well-funded breaking ecosystem may uplift the lives of traditionally marginalized b-boys and b-girls, haters warn that breaking's essence will disappear. Sunny is at the forefront in the battle for breaking's legacy.
